

Acceptable First Year English Courses from Canadian Post-Secondary Institutions

English courses should be offered through the English department and should consist of a full year or two semesters of literature, or one semester of literature plus one semester of composition.

Literature in this context means fiction, poetry, drama, and/or some literary non-fiction genres, whereas composition means a course dedicated to instruction in academic essay writing.

Please note that courses in science writing, creative writing, cultural studies, professional writing, professional communication, technical writing, report writing, business writing, linguistics, ESL, film studies or media studies will not satisfy the requirement, even if offered by an English department. Foreign language courses do not satisfy the requirement. Discipline-specific writing courses are not typically accepted.

Each of the English courses should have a workload equivalent to similar courses at UBC, including at least one research paper of five or more pages, an additional essay assignment, and preferably a final exam.

Other English courses may be accepted as well. If a course you are interested in meets the criteria outlined above and does not appear on the chart, please email admissions.md@ubc.ca to confirm acceptance.
